

Air1 serves me by providing something unique in high value family entertainment. I can't agree on much with my teenagers, but we all love this station. I'm confident of the quality of the message and don't need to monitor this station.

If Air1 we're replaced by a low power station, I'd likely lose my favorite music station for really no reason at all.

Air1 is in the public interest for the following reasons;

In an era when Howard Stern dominated the airwaves, Air1 one was providing encouraging, positive music, not filth.

The FCC needs to pave the ways for stations like Air1, not limit them.

Air1 offers something unique in these times.
